Residential Living

Geneva is a place where old meets new – a trait that is evident in its residential living options. Impressive century-old Victorian manors line the streets of historic downtown Geneva, offering a glimpse into the community’s rich past. A wide assortment of home styles can be found along the banks of the Fox River and throughout the downtown area. Large estates, post-war bungalows, remodeled farmhouses and 1950s-era ranch dwellings, as well as modern homes, condominiums and townhouse complexes, combine to make Geneva’s landscape an eclectic mix of design elements.

High-quality living, overlooking the greens, in Eagle Brook and Mill Creek, has made these neighborhoods top choices for families, retirees and golf enthusiasts. New neighborhoods like Cooper Woods from Havlicek Builders and Riverbank Crossing by Taylor Morrison, both in the heart of charming Geneva, are excellent options. Looking to lease? Settle into the private, quiet community of Ashford at Geneva apartment homes.

Those who are looking for senior living or assisted care facilities will find an array of choices in Geneva and in the neighboring communities of Batavia and St. Charles. These facilities provide a full continuum of care to residents – from independent living and assisted living to skilled nursing, hospice and Alzheimer’s care. Arden Courts Memory Care Community, Bria Health Services of Geneva, Geneva Place – A Covenant Retirement Community, GreenFields of Geneva, The Holmstad, The Reserve of Geneva and Wedgewood Manor are among the exceptional senior living communities located within the region. Geneva Township Senior Center also offers services to the senior population.

Whether it is the radiating hometown spirit, successful business district, exceptional schools, outstanding cultural and recreational opportunities or the countless other elements that compose this charming town; people are continually looking to Geneva as an attractive community in which to live.
